

WAR DEBATE ON CROSS-WALKS

Councilmen From Second Precinct Up in Arms.

APPROPRIATION IS HELD UP

CITY EMPLOYEES GIVEN HALF-HOLIDAY TO SEE FAIR.

The councilmen from the Second precinct were up in arms last evening because their colleagues attempted to hold up a motion picture resolution. Early in the evening a petition for a cross-walk in this district was laid over for a week because Councilman A. J. Davis thought the precinct funds were being overdrawn. Later when Councilman Davis offered a resolution for a stone crossing at First, South and Eighth West streets, Councilman Davis thought the resolution ought to go the same way. Councilman Wood agreed and wanted to know if the representatives of the other precincts were trying to work a gag rule on the Second. He said it was understood that the councilmen from each precinct were to spend their $1,500 emergency fund as they saw fit. He had never offered any objection when the other precincts had offered cross-walk resolutions, but on the contrary had waited until all the other districts of the city had been attended to before asking that his district be looked after. The resolution was passed. Then Councilman Preece came along with nine more sidewalk resolutions, and there was a hot debate. It was finally decided that the walks should be built providing their cost would not exceed the $1,500 emergency fund. Such walks cost between $100 and $125 each, so it was predicted that all the walks could not be constructed.

Bridges Over City Creek.

On motion of Councilman Tuddenham, it was decided to construct a $200 bridge across City creek at Fourth street, and that a $100 bridge be built across the creek at the east-end of City Creek park.

James Pappas petitioned to have a booth stand on the north sidewalk on Second Street, between Main and Second streets, because he purchased property for $200 last spring and was obliged to remove it by order of the council less than a month later, the request was denied by a vote of eight to six.

H. W. Lawrence asked that the fence on the south side of the Salt Palace be ordered removed from Main street to the outside of the property line. The request was referred to the streets committee.

John G. Felt protested against the change of grade on North Main street, and the building of party walls on the street. Eugene Kimball presented a similar protest, and the committee decided that they would hold the city responsible for damages.

Health Brothers' petition to remove the Salt Palace bar to a place opposite the fair grounds' gate was granted. Councilmen Black and Wells made objection, but they were overruled.

The city then reported that $20 had been paid to the city for dog licenses, half of which goes to the collector.

Special Policemen Appointed.

The chief of police reported that he had appointed Max Cochran, George Taylor, C. L. Lowrey, Henry Taggart and P. C. Howarth special policemen without pay to serve at the fair grounds.

Councilman Black's resolution to have a half-holiday declared on the afternoon of Oct. 4 on account of the state fair was passed.

At the request of the chief of the fire department, Councilman Black deferred the following resolution, which was adopted:

"The occupant of any building or structure in which any alkali acid, sulphuric acid, or any other acid or volatile chemical is stored or kept shall notify the chief of the fire department of the amount of said acid or chemical kept on said premises, and of the exact place or room in said building or structure in which said acid or chemical is stored or kept."

"Any person violating any provision of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor."

Councilman Black offered an ordinance which was referred to the license committee raising the license for junk dealers from $50 to $100 a year, and reducing that of merchandise brokers from $100 to $50.

DEMOCRATIC GAIN.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 3.—A net gain of one town to the Democrats and a gain of two towns to the license column tells in brief the story of the "little town" election in Connecticut today.

An entire absence of partisan strife for office, took from the election the chief interest. For officers, 125,162 towns voted, and of these, 125,162 were Republican as last year, while the Democrats got 33, as compared with 32 last year.

Happiest Man in Uncle Sam's Navy.

"I am the happiest man in Uncle Sam's Navy. I must have got the pills from always sitting on the floor, for I have to get on to them to clean them, as I am first-class gunner's mate in the after turret."

"I could not do any work when I had the pills, my shipmates did it for me. I certainly was in a bad condition; but there is no man aboard the ship in better condition than I am, and I can certainly thank Pyramid Pills for the world of good it has done me. I used so many different medicines and spent lots of money until I tried this remedy; it is the only one of the whole lot that did me any good."

"The first box nearly cured me. I don't think I ever felt happier in my life, that I thought I got the real stuff at last. To make sure of a cure I used a number of boxes, also two boxes of Pyramid Pills alone and one-half box of Pyramid Ointment, and I still have four boxes of Pyramid Pills left, that I keep in case I need any more that is a sufferer of piles."

I thank Pyramid Pills for a million times. Julius A. Koester, U. S. Flag Ship Kearsarge.

The wonderful cures effected by this remedy are subject for remark among members of the medical profession everywhere. A little book describing the causes and cure of piles is published by the Pyramid Drug Co., 1000 Main St., Mich., and we advise every sufferer to write for it. It is a singular fact that one out of every four suffers from this distressing complaint, and another peculiar feature is that it is no respecter of persons, attacking both those of high and of low degree, the laborer and the millionaire, the scrubwoman and the lady of fashion. We have pleasure in recommending Pyramid Pills to all such, as it possesses merit, and since it is sold by all druggists generally for the low price of 50 cents a package, a prompt and speedy cure is easily within the reach of everyone.

RELIGION THE REMEDY FOR WAR

John Hay's Opinion as Expressed at Peace Congress.

ADDRESS OF MAYOR COLLINS

RESPONSE OF THE BISHOP OF HEREFOORD.

Boston, Oct. 3.—Secretary of State John Hay, representing the United States of America, spoke the word of welcome this afternoon to the delegates to the international peace congress who assembled here for the first formal meeting of the thirteenth annual convention.

Secretary Hay traced briefly the war history of this country and pointed out that the country's greatest men had been warm advocates of peace. He agreed with Tolstoy that religion is the remedy for war. He promised the administration's support, so far as practicable, of the principle of arbitration of such questions as may not be settled through diplomatic negotiations, and expressed confidence that at no distant day the attention of the nations might be brought to a project looking toward the return of peace in the far east.

Tremont Temple Crowded.

The meeting was held in Tremont temple. Before 2 o'clock the auditorium was jammed and streams of people were turning away from the entrance. Edwin D. Mead, chairman of the committee of organization of the peace congress, after calling the meeting to order, said:

"If the press of the world would adopt and make the high resolution that war shall be no more, the clangor of arms would cease from the rising of the sun to its going down, and we could fancy that at last our ears, no longer stunned by the din of arms, might hear the morning stars ringing together and all the sons of God shouting for joy."

"If words are not mine, but were spoken at the International Peace association meeting at St. Louis a short time ago by Secretary of State Hay, and it is with those words ringing in our ears that we realize that the secretary of state is John Hay and that he is with us today."

Address of Welcome.

Mayor Collins said that no word of his was necessary to welcome peace delegates to Boston, for Boston was the city of peace. He said if he were to paraphrase a Bible text to suit the occasion it would be this: "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall see God; damned by the warmakers, for they shall see the devil."

Right Rev. John Percival, bishop of Hereford, was the first to make response. He said that the European nations looked to the United States to lead in the movement for peace; that the presence of Secretary of State Hay in itself gave a new character to the gathering, and he felt grateful that the secretaries of the peace congress had been given in behalf of the president of the United States as well as in his own behalf.

"Mr. Hay is well known in Europe and greatly respected and honored," the bishop continued.

Thanks Due the czar.

The bishop then expressed the opinion that a change was coming in peace affairs of the world. He thought that the world's thorns were due to the emperor of Russia, and he thought that which he had brought the questions of peace and disarmament within the range of politics, or practical discussion at the congress.

"Our hope for peace," the speaker said, "is fixed upon the policy of the United States in years to come."

The meeting was closed by all present joining in a hymn written especially for the occasion, and the session of the congress will be held tomorrow morning.

Music and Drama

To paraphrase, with all due respect, a very familiar quotation from a very good book, the description that best fits "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" is, "Tragedy of tragedies, all is tragedy."

From the beginning of the play to the end the nerves are racked, the soul is stifled with sombreness. "The program of tragedies, all is tragedy," the author and nobody not dressed in black should have been admitted to the theatre.

The story of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" is a well known story for criticism at this time. The theme is the world-wide one of the double standard of morals. Adam set up for us when he said, "The victor is a man, and I am a mortal sin in a woman."

That is a theme for critical elaboration. Florence Roberts was the Tess. Miss Roberts is a favorite in Salt Lake, where she comes every year and sometimes often. And she is deservedly a favorite, for she is one of the very strongest emotional actresses who visit this city.

Her Tess is a finished production, a performance that leaves nothing to be desired. As much as hardly be said for her support, but, with Miss Roberts on the stage, support is a mere detail.

It is stating the fact but briefly to say that Miss Roberts won the sympathy of her audience on her entrance and held it until the last curtain, and the audience knew in the beginning that she was a cruelly wronged woman, and as the play progressed and her wrongs piled ever higher, the sympathy found a vent in applause that amounted to real enthusiasm for the art of a talented actress.

Miss Roberts had a number of strong scenes, notably the scene in which, encouraged by the confession of her lover, she made husband, Angel Clare, she tells the dark portion of her life story. Another strong scene was the one in the cottage at Marlott, and the third was with Alec d'Urberville in the seaside lodging house. The most effective of all, however, was the last scene of the play, with Clare in the ruins of the heathen temple at Stonehenge.

During Henderson is this year, as last, Miss Roberts' leading man. He was the part of Angel Clare. Mr. Henderson was a very satisfactory actor. He has played many lovers' parts, and he is much the same in all of them, regardless of the story.
